Egg-citing Times!

What an egg-citing week we have had this week – if you haven't already heard from your children, we have been hatching ducklings in Reception and Cedar Class. The children across the whole school (as well as the grown ups!) have been fascinated to observe the eggs in the incubators, waiting patiently to see if a duckling emerges.

So far, we have had nine out of our ten eggs hatch and we have all really enjoyed watching the ducklings grow over the past few days. For the staff, seeing the children's faces and their levels of curiosity and fascination has been just fantastic. The ducklings are being looked after by staff over the weekend, but will be back in school on Monday morning. If you are coming in for 'At Home' sessions next week, you might want to pop in and see our newest, egg-cellent additions to the Myland family!
